VDP. ERSTE LAGE

In Rheinhessen, the grapes for the VDP.Erste Lage wines come from first-class sites with a long history. They are the ambassadors of the respective villages and combine strictly selected grapes with excellent and strictly defined origins. The characteristic soils of the VDP.Erste Lage give the wines their unmistakably independent character of origin.

ORIGIN

Hohen-Sülzen is located in the Eisbachtal. The stream rises in the Donnersberg massif and has a significant climatic influence on the valley. The cool nights, even in summer, help the wines retain their freshness, elegance and vibrancy. The vines grow around the church on pure limestone with a generous layer of limestone gravel and are characterised by their ripe fruit, delicate spiciness and filigree acidity.

VINIFICATION

The grapes are selectively harvested by hand, gently fermented spontaneously in cuve and carefully pressed after about 10 days. The wine matures in 2nd occupancy French barriques.

TASTE

The subtle use of wood complements the fruit with spicy notes, emphasised by mild spices such as allspice and cloves. On the palate, it is delicate and elegant with generous, dark fruit and youthfully polished tannins. With transparent vibrancy and slightly saline minerality, it flows fruit-forward into the spicy, cool finish.
