Since the Middle Ages, the southern Wonnegau has been recognized for having a growing climate unlike any other in Germany. Grape varieties that struggle elsewhere have been shown to thrive here, with Spätburgunder (Pinot Noir) as a prime example.

Our estate-level Spätburgunder is matured in third and fourth-fill barrique, lending it the delicate fruitiness and earthy spice for which it is renowned.

We carefully monitor the ripeness levels of the grapes to ensure a juicy freshness and cool, linear character.

Fragrant notes of red berries and cassis open the nose, followed by dark fruits layered with an elegant herbal freshness. The palate is dry, bright and juicy with a delicate spice on the finish.
