The Rothenberg is located at the northern end of the famous red slope. Due to the steep hillside length and the south-east orientation, the grapes benefit from the full morning sun, which is also reflected by the Rhine. The moisture that lies around the grapes at night can dry off so quickly and the berries stay healthy for long into November.

In the Rothenberg, the name is the program: Our Riesling vines grow on a red-skewed surface so soft and porous that the roots can literally eat themselves into the shale stones. The old vines provide a manageable yield, which means that the Rieslings from the Rothenberg always see a certain quantum of maturity well. After some time on the bottle, the wines reveal a unique and almost spectacular aroma fan: Sweet ripe marille, fine-spicy aromas and a delicate tone reminiscent of wild herbs. The Riesling Spätlese from this magnificent plot plays with an enormous finesse and elegance, coupled with a brilliant transparency that gives it an almost floating character.
